New York Dental Parlors

The high class of work turned out at the New York Dental Parlors every day counts and more people are realizing that they can get better work and lower prices than anywhere else.

Each department is charge of a specialist and our operators are graduate dentists of the best recognized schools in the U. S. or the world.

We have a larger staff than any other dental office in the city; we have the best plate workers, crown and bridge specialists, and in fact all branches of dentistry as practiced by us are strictly up to date.

We can save you money on your dental work. We will tell you in advance exactly what your work will cost by a free examination.

THE REASON.

This story is told of Rev. C. W. Millard, who is presiding elder of the New York conference.

For several years he had a servant in his family who was a devoted Roman Catholic. Her love and devotion to them made the question of salvation a serious one.

One day as Mary passed through the doctor's study he looked up and said:

"If I should die tonight, Mary, what would become of me?"

After thinking seriously for some minutes she replied:

"Ah, surely, I don't know, but I think the Lord would save you for your ignorance."—New York Times.

A DIFFERENCE.

Harry Schenckelmer, truant officer of the Twenty-first District, recently made a call at the home of a pupil whose absence had extended over a week, and inquired of the lad's mother, a genial looking Irish woman, the cause.

"Why," she said, "he's now past his thirteenth year, and me an' his father think he's after having school-in' enough, now."

"Schooling enough?" repeated the officer. "Why, I did not finish my education until I was 23."

"Be that so?" asked the mother, in amazement. Then, reassuringly, after a moment's thoughtful pause, "well, see, sez see, that boy of ours has learned."—Philadelphia Times.

"Casey—No; he's writin' a history of Ireland now. He thought that the easiest way to write her wrongs—

HE FOOLED THEM.

General Isaac Khan, Minister Plenipotentiary from Persia to the United States, is decidedly cosmopolitan in his habits and tastes. Even among his servants at the legation several countries are represented.

His butler is a Persian, but the assistant butler is an Irishman.

One day the minister happened to overhear a conversation between this Irishman and a tradesman, says the Saturday Evening Post.

The Irishman was discussing the language spoken at the legation.

"Can you understand it?" asked the tradesman.

"Not at all, at all," replied the butler's assistant, "but I make them think I do."

"It is so," he went on, "they think I know that Persian gibberish, and that I've traveled in their country, but the fact is, I've never been to South America in all my life."

HE WAS THERE—WITH GEORGE.

Representative Williams of Mississippi has naturally, among his constituents, many colored people. One among them, says the Philadelphia Press, is particularly interesting to the legislator, who engages him frequently in conversation. Recently he was amazed when the old negro acquainted him with the fact that he knew George Washington intimately.

The representative undertook to find out the limit to which he was able to stretch his imagination, and asked him: "Were you with Washington when he crossed the Delaware?"

"Yassa," was the reply. "I helped row de boat."

"And of course you were with him when he took a back at the cherry tree?"

"Yassa," was the negro's confident reply. "I drove de hack."

A FAMILIAR ITEM.

(Reading the paper)—There it is at last! I've been looking for that statement for a long time.

A 10c SALE

When Whitney & Marsh announce a sale the people expect BAR-GAINS. That's as it should be. Every assertion made in the advertising columns of the newspaper is well backed up with the goods. A late customer is sometimes disappointed because the article sought is sold out. That's her fault. The various items advertised are always on the counters to begin with. This week you will have an object lesson showing what a dime will do. Only a hint of the offer-

THE PING-PONG FAN

A ping pong fan is one of the pretty novelties of the summer, and this will attract the girl whose record with the small vellum bat and tiny ball is one of which she is proud. The ping pong fan represents a series of rackets, the outer ones showing a surface and edge in exact imitation of the genuine article. On the upper side of the ivory satin-covered bat rests a single pearl, in lieu of a celluloid ball. While such a fan could scarcely be recommended for practical purposes, it makes a pretty little favor for a luncheon or afternoon at cards. Across the outside may be inscribed the name of the recipient, or the date may be put on with watercolor.

The decorations consist of a border in some college color and a fluttering petal stamped across the opened petals. While such a tiny affair could not create any great breeze, the practical use to which it may be put makes it an article worth possessing. One girl who received such a fan as a gift had her monogram painted on the reverse side in the color to match the college flag.

Right up With the Times.

"Our missionary tells us that the automobile is even pervading heathen India."

"So the benighted natives are learning to scorch, eh?"

"No, not to any great extent, but they have fitted the car of Juggernaut with a motor and a crack chauffeur, and the combination is doing great business."
—The Automobile Magazine.
